

Imminent Closure of UGC Normandie: A Video Tribute by Guillaume Louyot

Paris, May 31, 2024 — As the closure of UGC Normandie approaches on June 13, 2024, Parisian filmmaker Guillaume Louyot (Onickz Artworks) unveils a video titled "Crépuscule du Cinéma UGC Normandie." This 6-minute short film delves into the empty spaces of this iconic Champs-Élysées cinema, offering a unique visual immersion through minimalist and contemplative shots.

UGC Normandie, with its 2000 seats, opened its doors on February 4, 1937, quickly becoming a cultural institution in Paris. This final visual tribute captures the essence of this venue before its disappearance, inviting viewers to feel the nostalgia of a bygone era. Shot in 6K RAW at 24 frames per second and edited, graded, and mixed on DaVinci Resolve, this technical and artistic achievement highlights the beauty and serenity of this unique space.

Through this work, Guillaume Louyot offers a reflection on the passage of time and the importance of places of memory, while paying homage to the enduring legacy of UGC Normandie. Discover this piece before it becomes a part of history.
